

Clovis King of the Franks 466 – 511 AD

Pope Vigilius 537 – 555 AD

Pope Pius the VI taken prisoner February 15, 1798 by Marshal Berthier of Napoleon's army

Marshal Louis-Alexandre Berthier 1753-1815

William Miller 1782- 1849 AD

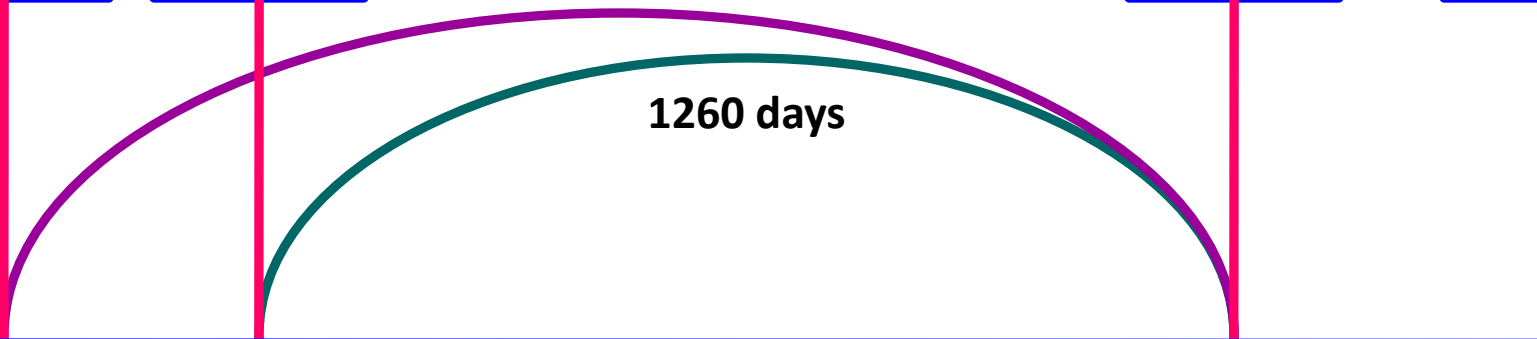

508 AD

538 AD

1290 days

1798 AD

1843 AD

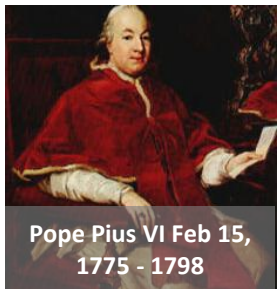

1260 days

Clovis King of the Franks

Daniel 12 Prophetic Timeline

© David Gilmore 3-angels.net

Pope Pius VI Feb 15, 1775 - 1798

1335 days

Statue depicting the baptism of Clovis King of the Franks by Saint Remigius when he was converted to Roman Catholicism in 496 AD. Clovis defeated the Burgundians, who were partially pagan, but many were Christians. His "desire" to spread his new religion and to ruin Christian kingdoms which refused to bow to the Catholic version of thinking seemed to be the aim of this "convert" ruler. He moved on to take the kingdom of the Visigoths and routed them in 507. Thereafter, in 508, Clovis was declared the "eldest son of the church". Great was the significance of events which culminated in 508. This date marks a new era in the course of the world's history and the establishment of the first Catholic kingdom in the West. This date--- 508--- marks the union of the church power -- the ecclesiastical power with the winning political power that was to dominate European history for hundreds of years to come.

Message of Rev 14:6-8
The hour of judgment –
Come out of Babylon